Introduction

My baseball board gaming history is a fairly typical one. I lusted after the various sports games advertised in the magazines until my mom finally relented and bought Strat-O-Matic Football for me in 1972. I got SOM's baseball game a year later and I was hooked. I would get the new card set each year and attempt to play the in-progress season by moving the traded players around and turning 'nameless player cards" into that year's key rookies.

I switched to APBA in the late '70's because they started releasing some complete old season sets and the idea of playing with those really caught my fancy. Between then and the mid-nineties, I collected a lot of card sets. I finished a few one and two team seasons, but mostly I just hopped around from one full-season project to another, rarely getting one into June.

I switched over to playing computer versions in the '90's, playing APBA's original computer game, their Baseball for Windows, and some Diamond Mind Baseball.

About 2004, I decided I really missed the immersion provided by a cards and dice replay and after some poking around various online forums, I decided that Replay Baseball looked like a game I wanted to try. I bought Replay and the 1978 set of cards. The game arrived at my house on July 17, 2004. I began playing the 1978 schedule the next morning. I finished the 1978 season in February 2006 and have since also completed full-season Replays of the 1908, 1923 Negro National League, 1952, 1956, 1960, 1966, 1967, and 1975 seasons.

Along the way, I made what is now a fairly elaborate MS Access database that I use to manage and keep stats for my projects. Since I have all my results in an electronic format, I thought it would be cool to put that data together to make this encyclopedia. Obviously, the records contained here reflect what these players did in an odd assortment of seasons only, but it amuses me to look at the leader lists and think about who will be moving up or joining my "career" top tens as I play my next season.

Hopefully, you will have some fun with this.

Of course, the real 1908 season featured an epic three-team National League chase to the wire that was decided in favor of the Cubs by the margin of the "Merkle's Boner" game. In my recreation, the Pirates won 109 games to top the Cubs by 3 ½ games and the Giants, who faded late, by 12 ½. Honus Wagner pretty much reprised his historic season. He hit .335 with 11 home runs and 115 RBI, slugging .524; the NL league slugging percentage was .303.
In the American League, my race lived up to the real season's barn burner with an astounding Tigers stretch run ultimately claiming the flag. Detroit trailed the Browns by 17 ½ games after the games of August 7 and still found themselves 17 games back on August 28. The Tigers went 34-9 the rest of the way including a 24-2 finishing kick that gave them the pennant by a half game over both the Browns and the Cleveland Naps.
The World's Series went to the Pirates four games to one. MVP's were Honus Wagner in the NL and Sam Crawford in the AL. I started this season project in December 2004 and finished it in August 2006.

This was a Replay of the 1923 Negro National League season. Patrick Rock did painstaking research to assemble a nearly complete record of this Negro League campaign and Pete Ventura turned the fruits of Patrick's labor into an astounding card set that makes these players come alive. I actually bought the set thinking it would just be cool to look at, but once I did look at it and read Patrick's essays on the season, I knew I wanted to experience this part of baseball history in a way that, for me, only a cards and dice Replay can let me do.

The Kansas City Monarchs of Bullet Rogan, Heavy Johnson, and Dobie Moore lapped the field, but it was just a thrill to get to know a little something more about other stars I'd heard of like Oscar Charleston, Christobal Torriente, and Turkey Stearnes. It was also a fascinating introduction to a lot of lesser ballplayers who were part of this part of baseball's history.

I started this season project in December 2006 and finished it in May 2008.

1952

This was my first foray into Classic Replay and I really found that I enjoy that version of the game. The 1952 cards were produced in 1986, so they incorporate a good number of enhancements compared to the early-70s version of the game. The Yankees easily defended their real season World Championship, however, their World Series opponents were the Phillies, who upset the Boys of Summer by three games in the NL race. New York won the Series four games to two. MVPs were Mickey Mantle (AL) and Hank Sauer (NL) and the Rookie of the Awards went to the Browns' Clint Courtney and the Dodgers' Joe Black.
I began this Replay in February 2006 and finished it in August 2008. It was pretty much the backup project for most of its life; it was never the only season I had going.

1956

Mickey Mantle hit 62 home runs to surpass the Babe's record and Ted Williams singled in his final at bat of the season to finish at .401. Williams had a foot injury early in the season that limited him to pinch-hitting duty. Through games of August 2, Williams was hitting .463 (105 for 227). Understandably, he tailed off after that and a late 12 at bat hitless streak left him needing the hit in his final at bat to salvage the .400 season. The Yankees had a great year, winning 106 games, but they couldn't shake the surprising Tigers, who accumulated 102 wins themselves. The Cincinnati Redlegs hit a big league record 260 home runs en route to winning the National League pennant by six lengths over the Dodgers. Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski hit 53 homers to edge New York's Willie Mays by one for the NL crown. The Yankees topped the Redlegs in five games to claim the World's Series. Mantle and Willie Mays won the MVP Awards. Luis Aparicio (AL) and Frank Robinson (NL) won the Rookie of the Year salutes. Frank Lary was the inaugural Cy Young Award winner.
I started this Replay in February 2010 and finished it that same November.

1960

The Pirates repeated their actual National League pennant, but the White Sox took a surprise flag in the American League. The Yankees matched their real season total of 97 wins, but the Hose outdid them by two. Ernie Banks hit a Senior Circuit record 57 home runs and claimed his loop's MVP Award. Minnie Minoso took the AL MVP. Mike McCormick was the Cy Young Award winner. Frank Howard (NL) and Ron Hansen (AL) won their league's Rookie of the Year honors. In the World Series, the Pirates scored in the last of the 12th to win game six and take the series four games to two. I began this one in June 2011 and finished it in September 2012.

1966

The Orioles and Dodgers repeated their real season pennants. Jim Ray Hart belted 48 home runs and drove 133 runs to cop the National League MVP Award. Frank Robinson fell short of all three legs of his real 1966 triple crown, but he still garnered the AL's MVP award in a close vote. The Phillies' Jim Bunning won 26 games to claim the Cy Young Award.
In the Series, the Dodgers reversed their fortunes from the real '66 WS with a four games to two victory. John Roseboro and Lou Johnson had the big hits as they won a couple of 11 inning games including the Series clincher.
This project began in March 2013 and finished in April 2014.

1967

The real 1967 season featured a famous four-team race in the American League and a comfortable Cardinals win in the NL. My Replay more or less reversed the proceedings with the Red Sox taking the junior loop by nine games, while the Reds chased the Cards to the wire. Even so, this was the first time I had the same two teams in the World Series as real life, although this time the Red Sox won the series four games to two to end the "Curse of the Bambino" 37 years earlier than they did in real life.

The highlight of this one was Carl Yastrzemski's repeat of his actual season triple crown. A macabre note to this one was that in the Replay of the August 18 Red Sox- Angels game in which Tony Conigliaro was beaned and badly injured in real life, I rolled a hit-by-pitch for Conigliaro. I removed him from the game at that point.

This project began in January 2007 and finished in September 2009.

1975

Three of the four real season division winners repeated in this Replay, with the Pirates, Reds, and Red Sox reprising their pennant-winning performances. The one change from actual saw the Royals claim the AL West crown ahead of the A's. Cincinnati Reds catcher Johnny Bench's 171 RBI was the top individual performance on the offensive side, while Los Angeles' Andy Messersmith was the biggest pitching star; Messersmith went 24-11 with 11 shutouts. The Reds and Red Sox won their respective LCS to set up a Replay of the classic '75 World Series. This one went seven games, as well, but the script was very different. Boston took a 3-1 lead only to see the Reds come back to force a game seven. In the deciding tilt, Don Gullett took a 1-0 lead to the last of the eighth, but the Red Sox put together a two-out two-run rally and held Cincinnati off the board in the ninth to prevail.
This one began in November 2010 and ended in January 2012.

This was my first Replay card set and my first project with this remarkable board game that has come to be a very big part of my life. The only one of the four actual division winners from 1978 who didn't repeat in the Replay were the World Champion Yankees who were dethroned by the Red Sox. Only the National League East provided any kind of race. The Dodgers, Royals, Red Sox ,and Phillies won 110, 109, 106, and 96 games, respectively. The Red Sox and Phillies met in a rematch of the 1915 World Series with the Red Sox prevailing in five games.
This first ever of my Replay projects began in July 2004 and finished in February 2006.
